Jeff Linear Pendant

by Pio and Tito Toso

Designed by Pio and Tito Toso for Vistosi, the Jeff linear pendant joins three handmade Murano crystal elements end to end in a single horizontal suspension. Each element is shaped using rigadin, a traditional Venetian technique that works fine ribbed lines into the glass, scattering light from integrated LED sources along its length. The linear format comes in three compositions: three slender elongated forms, three tapered drops, or a central drop framed by two elongated elements. The choice ranges from a restrained profile to a more sculptural rhythm. Suited to dining tables, kitchen islands and reception counters, it spreads light across a long surface. When lit, Jeff traces fluid, rippling lines of light; when off, it stands as a glass sculpture in its own right. Available in a choice of metal frame finishes. Made in Italy by Vistosi.
