Souvlaki is a low-voltage track system that offers intuitive configuration for both public and residential spaces. Adjustable, non-adjustable, or suspended spots easily attach and slide along the track, customisable with various accessories. Integrated electronics allow smartphone control via DALI protocol, enabling precise adjustments in any position. Linear LED tracks provide indirect lighting and power for projectors. Versatile modular structures can be created without false ceilings, powered from a single source, and enhanced with individual spotlights, offering comprehensive lighting options.
