

Jeff Pendant

by Pio and Tito Toso

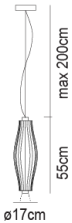

The Jeff pendant light by Pio and Tito Toso brings the Venetian rigadin technique to a single suspended form. Handmade in Murano from pure crystal, each piece is worked with fine ribbed lines that catch and refract light from an integrated LED source. Two silhouettes are available, a slender elongated cylinder and a fuller tapered drop. Hung alone, either becomes a composed focal point above a bedside, entry or dining nook. Grouped at varying heights, they form a loose cluster of glass with a sense of movement. Lit, the ribbing draws fluid lines of light along the glass; switched off, Jeff reads as a quiet crystal sculpture. Offered with a choice of metal frame finishes, the pendant is part of the wider Jeff family, which also includes a linear suspension.
